

Harvey Aluminum to Open Rolling Mill in Kentucky

ARDENT SCENE . . . Marvin Cloyd and Laura Killingsworth, cast in major roles of Noel Coward's "Private Lives," are shown here in an embrace during their on-again, off-again romance. The presentation is being staged Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings through Oct. 22 at Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5201 E. Anaheim. Thursday night performances are all sold to private parties.

Noel Coward's 'Private Lives' In LB Showing

Presentation of Noel Coward's most sophisticated play, "Private Lives," is thrilling audiences each weekend at the Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5201 E. Anaheim. Featuring Marvin Cloyd and Laura Killingsworth, popular stars of the Community Playhouse stage and area light opera productions, the play gets its start when the pair, formerly married but about to remarry others, meet unexpectedly in a French hotel. From that point, the tale becomes a merry chase with the reunited couple sharing rekindled fires of their stormy and ardent marriage and eloping to Paris. Taking up the pursuit are the jilted pair, portrayed here by Ann Parvaresh and Tom Goodman, both well-known in Little Theater circles. Rounding out the principal cast in the Kathy Davis directed play is Jo Maes Knoerr, who is a French maid. Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Community Playhouse in Long Beach.

Realtor Is Chef

Charles J. Pecora, president of the Torrance-Lomita Board of Realtors, today traded his gavel for a chef's hat. Pecora prepared a special Italian luncheon today for the realtors, featuring his own homemade spaghetti. The menu also included Pecora special sauce, a tossed green salad, and beverages. Purpose of the luncheon is to raise funds for the California Real Estate Association's fight against Title IV of the Administration's proposed civil rights bill.

Hancock County, Kentucky, was the scene of the only arrest and trial of Abraham Lincoln. It's also the location of the new Harvey Aluminum rolling mill, a $50 million fabricating plant scheduled to go into production this month. The huge aluminum complex, built on the Ohio River near Lewisport in northwest Kentucky, has a minimum annual output rating of 120,000,000 pounds of sheet, plate and related products. "The Lewisport mill," said Lawrence A. Harvey, president, "is a balanced facility, conveniently accessible to the nation's industrial centers. We are supplying all requirements — from aircraft quality aluminum plate 12 feet wide to painted sheet for mobile homes. Our marketing concept is to provide one-source responsibility to our metal service centers and fabricating customers for all rolled products in varying alloys, sizes, and thicknesses." LEWISPORT can produce flat sheet and plate, coil sheet, strip, re-roll, anodizing quality sheet, embossed sheet, and painted sheet. Depending on the end product, the gauge range extends from .006 inch up through 5 inches and the widths from 1/2 inch to 144 inches. All common and heat treatable alloys are rolled. "The Kentucky mill houses the latest proven equipment in the industry, and it's well laid out for the efficient production of consistent and reliable sheet products," said Harvey. "The new plant complements the company's aluminum sheet, strip and foil capabilities in Torrance."

MAJOR operations at the Lewisport plant include: Remelt furnaces to alloy high purity aluminum from Harvey's reduction facilities and to cast the molten metal into rolling ingot. A 154-inch wide hot reversing mill to produce heavy gauge plate for aircraft, marine, railroad, automotive and truck trailer markets. A 92-inch wide three-stand tandem hot mill, producing light gauge plate and re-roll. A 66-inch wide two-stand tandem cold mill and an 80-inch single-stand cold mill to produce sheet for the building, transportation, aerospace, consumer durables, electrical, and packaging and container markets. A 60-inch wide embossing line to provide embossed sheet for building products and consumer durables. A 60-inch wide paint line to supply painted sheet to awning, truck trailer, and mobile home fields. FINISHING facilities for tension leveling, stretcher leveling, resquaring, sawing, etc. "With the Lewisport fabricating plant going into commercial production, Harvey Aluminum's capabilities as a primary mill supplier extends through the full range of wrought aluminum products," said Harvey.
